

MAINE WILDERNESS EXPEDITION

June 25 to July 17, 2011 *Updated May 30, 2011

ORIENTATION DAY

June 25 Arrive at Logan Airport, Boston in the morning. Your instructors will be waiting for you at your gate or baggage claim if arriving by plane. If driving, we meet at the American Airlines baggage claim office. Once our group is assembled we will load up our van and begin the few hour drive north toward Grafton Notch State Park in the White Mountains of Maine. We will spend the day getting to know each other, discussing details of the expedition and figuring out our daily routines and responsibilities. We spend the night at a campground in the White Mountain National Forest.

MAHOOSUC NOTCH BACKPACK

June 26 to June 29 After breakfast, we divide up group gear and provisions, learn to pack our backpacks and start off on the trail to explore the Mahoosuc Notch area. For the next several days, we take time to develop our wilderness skills, discuss backcountry safety, land navigation and low-impact camping techniques. We move at a pace that is comfortable for all and spend time getting to know the rest of our group. Ascending above tree line offers spectacular views of the Presidential Range and the hills sweeping down to the Maine coast. After returning from our first backpack, we depart toward the coast of Maine. We plan our meals for our upcoming trip along the coast and begin packing for our upcoming kayaking and sailing expedition, spending the night at a state park near the coast.

SEA KAYAKING ALONG THE MAINE COAST

June 29 to July 2 After spending some time, learning kayak safety and wet-exits in the relatively warm waters of a local lake, we out in the afternoon to begin our exploration of Muscongus Bay in our sea kayaks. Paddling tandem and single kayaks, we learn paddling techniques, tide and current predictions and marine navigation. Putting in our kayaks near Friendship, we make our way through the protected waters of coastal Maine. Based on weather and tides, we stay at a different island each night and explore remote islands and secluded coves. We trade in our kayaks for the traditional sailing vessel Frances, and prepare for sailing along the coast of Maine.

SAILING THE COAST OF MAINE

July 3 to July 7 After loading up provisions and our group gear, we begin our exploration of the Maine coast. We decide on our itinerary alongside the professional crew—taking into account the wind, weather and tides. Undoubtedly, our plan will find us exploring uninhabited islands, remote fishing villages and secluded harbors of Casco Bay and beyond. Over the course of our trip, our skills as sailors and navigators will build as we take time to discuss sail theory, anchoring, navigation and seamanship. We will anchor in a quiet harbor each evening and make camp and explore an island each night. Part of the group may have an opportunity to sleep on board the ship. We meet our van on the final day, and begin making our way toward Baxter State Park and planning for our final expedition in the North Woods of Maine. We stay at a campground in Camden on the way, where we have an opportunity to take hot showers and do our laundry.

BACKPACKING – RAFTING – MT. KATAHDIN ASCENT

July 8 to July 17 The next day, we make our way to the Appalachian Trail, south of Baxter State Park to begin our six-day backpacking trip along a portion of the 100 Mile Wilderness. Moving at a pace comfortable for all, we make our way through this vast wilderness past placid lakes and cascading rivers, and ascending above tree-line for magnificent views. This is one of the more rigorous parts of our trip, but always a highlight for students. After we emerge from the wilderness, we trade in our boots and packs for paddles and rafts, meet our rafting guides and load up to begin our descent. After learning paddling and river reading techniques from our expert guides, we spend the day navigating our rafts down class III & IV whitewater on the Penobscot River, and spend the night on the river – enjoying a re-supply and some fresh food. The next day we continue along the trail toward the summit of Mount Katahdin – the highest peak in Maine and the northern terminus of the Appalachian Trail. One more night out on the trail, brings us to the base of the mountain – where we prepare for an early morning ascent. After descending from Katahdin, we make our way south to enjoy our last evening together with a final-farewell-feast and a stay at a campground in Freeport, Maine. In the afternoon we say farewell to each other where we began 23 days earlier, at Logan Airport in Boston, after an amazing experience.
